

U. S. TROOPS MAY AVENGE LATEST RAID

FORCE MAY BE SENT ACROSS BORDER IN CHASE OF BANDITS WHO RAIDED GLENN SPRINGS.

IN FUNSTON'S HANDS

Secretary Baker Indicates That General Funston Still Has Full Power To Order Further Expeditionary Movements.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Alpine, Texas, May 8.—Fleeing through the wilds of northern Coahuila the seventy or more bandits that raided the American settlement of Glenn Springs and Boquillas last Friday, killing three cavaliers and a one year old boy, are believed to be heading into the interior today, many miles from the scene of their depredations.

Private Roscoe Tyree was last seen as he ran from the adobe house where he and his eight companions for three long hours fought against the Mexicans, and then fled because the roof of the house was set afire by fire balls.

Storekeeper Found Dead.

Unconfirmed information says that J. Deemer, the storekeeper at Boquillas, has been found dead on the Mexican side with his throat cut. His clerk, named Compton, is known to have been a captive of the bandits. He is thought to have suffered the fate of Deemer's bodies of the three soldiers killed will be sent to their homes today.

Mrs. W. K. Ellis and her husband, who were with the bandits, were taken to the Mexican side, where Mrs. Ellis was the only woman in Glenn Springs when the bandits swooped down upon the little settlement near the border. Her husband, who was a clerk in the store, was killed in the burning buildings and her husband fled to the hills, where they wandered until morning.

Following her friends of the experience in Marathon, where she is resting today, Mrs. Ellis said:

"A fusillade of shots roused my husband and myself. Peering out of the window we saw four or five men moving in the direction of the soldiers' little camp.

"The flashes of their rifles were like lightning strikes in the darkness, and we knew there must be a number of Mexicans attacking the place."

"Mr. Ellis told me not to strike a match or make a noise for fear of attracting the attention of the bandits."

"In the dark we hunted for our clothes, and quickly dressed. The bandits were now firing rapidly at the adobe house, where I later learned the soldiers had taken refuge."

"We could hear shouts of the Mexicans, and saw a party of them moving toward our bungalow."

"We slipped out of the back door and hid every shadow as we went into the hills."

"We dodged about rocks, and found ourselves wandering in the mesquite and desert growth three miles from Glenn Springs. Here for some hours we were in the dark, and did not know whose ranch it was, but I was given a burro and rode on four miles to John Rice's ranch."

"In the ranch I met some of the men who were in Glenn Springs, having heard the Mexicans had left."

"The interior of the house was thrown in disorder, and clothes were missing, but strange things were nowhere to be seen."

"Troop Movement Started."

Troops A and B of Eight cavalry under command of Major G. T. Lang, reached Marathon today from El Paso, and immediately started southwest to Glenn Springs over truck-roads. The two troops of cavalry from Fort Clark are expected this afternoon and will follow Major Lang's lead.

Delay in Conference.

El Paso, May 8.—General Obregon announced at 9:30 o'clock that the next conference of the Generals Scott and Funston would be held at noon.

At noon there was no sign of a conference. General Obregon remained in his private car at Juarez. It was reported on the Mexican side the minutes of the war were being prepared at six o'clock this evening.

General Gavira, Carranza commander in Juarez, said today that the Mexicans take the view that the Big Bend raid was instigated by interventionists, and that no great importance was attached to it for that reason.

General Funston said it "would not be proper" for him to disclose whether or not an expeditionary force was being sent into Coahuila in pursuit of Mexican bandits. He did not deny there would be such a movement. He said, however, he believed troops had "not yet" crossed the border.

Clamor for Militia.

Telegrams and letters from all along the Texas border were being forwarded today to Governor Ferguson asking he use the state militia for border protection.

President Still Effective.

Washington, May 8.—Secretary Baker stated today that the war department considers the agreement under which the army began the pursuit of the bandits still in operation, and that under its terms General Funston will take any steps necessary to pursue the bands which Friday night raided the Big Bend country, without further instructions.

May Pursue Raiders.

Columbus, May 8.—Details of the raid upon Glenn Springs today as transmitted to American detachments along General John J. Pershing's line of communication, stirred them to a new activity, according to reports here today. Everywhere expectant generally believed here that should the raid be deemed necessary in pursuit of the bandits, some of the troops stationed here, and troops engaged along the upper end of the line of communication, will be called upon.

Official reports from the expeditionary command indicated that the district for agitators recently said to have been attempting to incite the

MEXICAN "TROUBLE REGION," WHERE U. S. TROOPS ARE BUSY

This map of the Mexican border shows, in addition to other places of present interest the Mexican situation, the Big Bend region of Texas which was visited by bandit raiders last Friday night. Two Texas towns, Glenn Springs and Boquillas, were visited and three troopers and a small boy were killed.

Mexican populous to violence against Americans.

El Paso Report.

El Paso, Tex., May 8.—Three American soldiers and a one year old boy have lost their lives and two American citizens have been kidnapped and carried south of the international boundary to almost certain death in another raid of Mexican bandits that takes rank with Francisco Villa's famous attack on Columbus, N. M. Whether the marauders were Villistas or Carranzistas is not known.

The bandits' force, carrying them through the southern limits of Brewster county, in the big bend district of Texas, and taking in three little settlements near the border—Glenn Springs, Boquillas and Deemers, took place Friday night and Saturday morning, but news of it did not reach here until Sunday.

Troops to Scene.

Within a few days preparations had been begun for an expedition today. Maj. Gen. Frederick Funston ordered that all troops of cavalry should proceed to the raided section to reinforce small detachments already on their way to the scene from Presidio, Alpine and other points.

These troops set out under way Sunday night. It is said here that if the expedition is successful, the border action will cross the border in order to run down and disperse the bandits.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

La Crosse, May 8.—Lawrence Larson, seven-year-old son of Edward Larson, disappeared suddenly while skating on the street in a residential district yesterday, and today the police are scouring city and country around for him. Kidnaping is suspected and a camp of gypsies on the outskirts were searched by authorities today, but without locating the missing lad. The boy does not come from wealthy parents, and no motive for a kidnaping, if such it should prove to be, is known.

CORPORATION TAXES WILL BE INCREASED

Nils Haugen, Tax Commission Chairman, States Amount Will Be Materially Larger This Year.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, May 8.—The amount of corporation tax income will be larger this year than ever before, declared Nils P. Haugen, chairman of the state tax commission today.

He said reports received from corporations showed unusual prosperity during last half of the year of 1915. He said sufficient information had not been received to determine whether there would be an increase of income tax from individuals.

TRY CONVICT LABOR ON COUNTY HIGHWAYS

Not Many Waupun Prisoners Will be Used This Summer as Many Are Now Employed on Construction Work.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., May 8.—The first contract work of state prisoners for building of highways for the counties of Wisconsin, will be started this week. Two crews will be sent out, one for Dodge county and another into Fond du Lac county.

The building of roads by convicts was given a trial last year when the road from Chester to Waupun was constructed by prison labor. This is the first time counties have tried the system. Not many convicts will be leased to counties this year, owing to the fact that about 175 prisoners are being employed in state reformatory camps at the Tomahawk Lake Tubercular camp, the new home for the feeble-minded at Union Grove and the Taycheedah Women's reformatory.

PREPARE COLISEUM FOR BIG CONVENTION

Carpenters Start Work of Transforming Building for Republican Gathering in June.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, May 8.—Preparations for the opening of the republican national convention here on June 7, were started today when carpenters began to transform the coliseum into a convention hall. Wm. F. Stone of Boston, sergeant-at-arms of the convention, is in charge of the preparation.

According to present plans, the full national committee will meet June 2, to make up the temporary roll of the convention. So far only eight contests have been filed, as against 235 filed four years ago, so it is expected that the hearing of claims on contests will be quickly disposed of.

GERMAN COMMERCE RAIDERS REPORTED OFF AZORE ISLAND

Steamer Venezia of Faber Line Attacked on Voyage to New York.—British Attache Takes Action.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, May 8.—Captain Guy Gaunt, naval attache of the British embassy at Washington, today investigated the report that two German commerce raiders, accompanied by two submarines, are operating in trans-Atlantic steamship lanes off the Azore Islands about 1,800 miles from New York. The story was brought here yesterday by the steamer Venezia of the Faber Line, from Bordeaux. Members of the crew said one of the raiders fired several shots at the Venezia on April 28, but was unable to overtake her.

The naval attache said he intended to wire at once to Halifax, so the British cruisers now in American waters would be warned.

"They will know in Halifax if any of our cruisers or auxiliaries are in the region reported by Captain Boniface," said Captain Gaunt. "If those are really German raiders, escaped from Kiel, they will have a short lease of life. Undoubtedly they will be met with great excitement in London when the news reaches there that German raiders are loose again. We will do everything possible to learn the ocean lanes quiet."

One of the men on the Venezia said the vessel that fired on them flew no flag, and she was accompanied by a larger vessel, which in turn was conveying the crew of the submarine.

GERMAN INVENTION SAVED FOOD SUPPLY

Machine Reduces Food to Dry Material, Eliminating Water—Makes Powdered Milk.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Munich, Germany, May 8.—The latest invention for conserving Germany's food supply, and scientists believe, one of the most valuable in years, is a machine recently completed by a Munich engineer, G. A. Krause. By the application of a centrifugal force rather than by heat, the machine is said to quickly and absolutely extract the moisture from all kinds of food stuffs, without removing any of the valuable ingredients.

Milk placed in the new machine quickly turns to a whitish, almost vapor-like powder. But, unlike milk which has been reduced to powder by heating processes, the fluid treated in the centrifugal motion machine is said to lose none of its nutritive value, and when mixed with water an hour or a year later becomes real, pure milk again. It tastes precisely like the original; it contains, as chemical analysis shows, every one of the characteristics and properties of milk, and produces a thick, rich cream—providing the original milk did—from which butter may be churned.

Herr Krause has as yet revealed his exact process to no one, though his machine is open to inspection and he has operated it for the benefit of scores of scientific men. It resembles a large wooden boiler set in a vertical position—about six feet through and twelve feet high—and is operated by electricity. Since no movement is visible when the motor is turned on, and the drying process is astonishingly rapid, the mysterious transformation of milk, eggs, or fruit to powder, before one's eyes, is almost uncanny.

When Herr Krause had completed his machine, he notified a scientist of his acquaintance of its invention and of what it would do, and invited him to inspect it. The scientist came to Munich as a decided doubter, but at a demonstration of the new machine he telephoned to fellow servants to come to Munich and see the most remarkable product of the war.

Inevitably, commercial circles heard of the machine and began to investigate it. A famous Hamburg chemical concern, interested in the problem of drying certain chemicals that spoil in a short time, finally took hold of the machine. But before it did, Herr Krause gave the members of the firm a unique entertainment.

In their presence in his laboratory, he poured a quantity of milk into the machine and dried it to powder. He repeated the process with a number of eggs. In succession, potatoes, fruit and a number of other edibles were reduced to powder. The various powders then were taken to a kitchen in the inventor's home.

With the guests still watching, amazed and almost incredulous, Krause added water to the milk in the right proportion. The powdered egg he put into a huge frying pan, added water and butter, and in a very short time had a tasty and attractive dish of scrambled eggs. The fruits he transformed into a sort of jam or marmalade and the potatoes he served in still another way.

Then the chemists sat down to lunch with the inventor. They went enthusiastically on record to an Associated Press correspondent the same day that each and every dish prepared from the dried and powdered products tasted absolutely like the original foods, and that no flavor had been lost. While food drying processes are by no means new, nearly all of them are operated with heat. The greater the heat necessary in most cases, the greater is the loss of some valuable element in the food.

FAMOUS RIGGS BANK CASE ON TRIAL IN WASHINGTON.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Washington, May 8.—With the leading legal lights of New York and Washington as advocates and bankers throughout the country as audience, the famous Riggs bank case came to trial here today.

Charles G. Glover, president; William J. Flather, vice-president, and Henry H. Plather, former cashier of the Riggs National Bank are answering the charge of perjury in the District Supreme Court.

The three men are charged with testifying falsely that the Riggs bank did not engage in stock transactions. Back of the case is the fight that has raged for a year, or since the Riggs bank officials charged Secretary of the Treasury, Woodrow Wilson, with conspiracy to wreck the bank.

The bank officials pleaded that the stock transactions, alleged by the government to have been with the government, were with the bank of Lewis, Johnson & Company in the name of the bank, were those of the bank's customers.

Samuel Undermyer, chief counsel for the treasury officials in the conspiracy suit, is expected to act in an advisory capacity to United States Attorney Laskey, prosecutor. For the bank officials, the star corporation is the Washington and Annapolis bank.

The fight between Williams and the bank officials has been bitter. Charges of perjury, bad faith and general unscrupulousness have been leveled against them ever since the spring of 1915.

Upon the acquittal of the officials or resignation hangs the renewal of the charter of the Riggs bank, one of the oldest and strongest outside of New York. Williams has hinted that he will not renew the charter if the present officers remain in charge unless they are freed of the perjury charge against them.

It is possible the trial will not be over before the present charter of the bank expires July 1. The government charges nine hundred and thirty-two items of stock dealing by the bank. The fact that the company with which the transactions allegedly were made is a defunct was another angle expected to be considered.

The fact that the trial started today was a defeat for the bank officers, who tried to have it advanced on the calendar to assure its completion before the time for renewal of the charter.

Difference in Vinegar.

What a difference in table vinegars! Some have a coarse acidity that is most pronounced. And for just a bit more than you usually pay you will find them of unusual mellowness and of much greater strength than the ordinary vinegar. It is surprising what a difference a really good vinegar makes in a salad dressing or for pickling.

Radiates Joy.
A happy man or woman is a better thing than a five-pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of good will, and the entrance of such a one into a room is as though another candle had been lighted. We need not care whether these persons could prove the forty-seventh proposition; they do a better thing than that; they practically demonstrate the great theorem of the livableness of life.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

WHITEWATER WINS OPENER AT FORT ATKINSON, SUNDAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Whitewater, May 8.—The Central State League opened the season at Fort Atkinson, Sunday, and a team from this city played one from there for the opener. A good many people went over to see the game and about two thousand fans were present. Fort Atkinson started off in the first and made two runs and two more in the fifth inning after two were out.

Whitewater made two in the sixth and two in the eighth, tying the score. But the Fort Atkinson team came back and made two in their half of the inning. Dodge, first man up for Whitewater, singled to left. Goodman was hit by a pitched ball. Rhode fanned after making three long hits before. Nis walked. Goede walked. Beebe was taken from the mound and the university battery put in. Mericle drove to third, who threw wild to first, scoring four runs. Fort Atkinson made one run in their half of the inning and the game ended 8 to 7 in our favor.

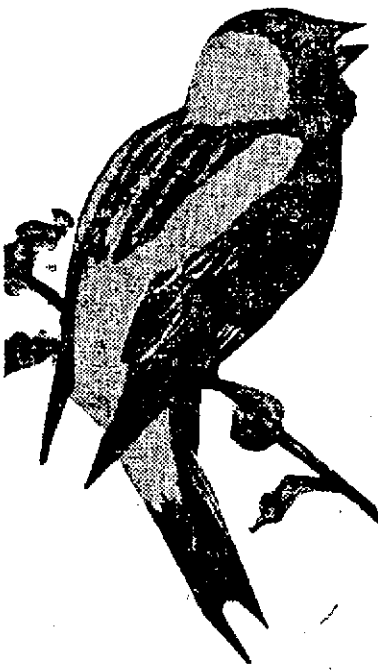

The body of Lewis Sigwell was brought here Sunday evening from Janesville and taken to Hillside for burial. Mr. Sigwell was sixty-two years of age and was born on a farm near this city. He has been a resident of Janesville for the past twenty-five years. Mrs. E. B. Chamberlin of the university was a sister of the deceased. The body of Mrs. Samuel Nelson was brought here Friday for burial.

Rock Salt and Gypsum.
Beds of rock salt and gypsum occur in large areas in the United States. They are found in the saltina rocks of New York and Pennsylvania and in other formations of about the same age laid down in Michigan and Ohio during periods of great aridity. In southeastern Michigan a bed of rock salt 800 feet thick is said to have been found by drill holes. Dense brines or salt deposits are found in carboniferous strata in West Virginia and other eastern states, in the "red beds" of the southwest and the Rocky mountains, in the cretaceous deposits of several of the western states and in the tertiary strata of the far southwest—Argentina.

COMMON AMERICAN BIRDS.
INTERESTING INFORMATION ABOUT THEM SUPPLIED BY THE BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY OF THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

BOBOLINK

Dolichonyx oryzivorus

Length, about seven inches. Range: Breeds from Ohio north-east to Nova Scotia, north to Manitoba, and northwest to British Columbia; winters in South America.

Habits and economic status: When American writers awoke to the beauty and attractiveness of our native birds, among the first to be enshrined in song and story was the bobolink. Few species show such striking contrasts in the color of the sexes, and few have songs more unique and whimsical. In its northern home the bird is loved for its beauty and its rich melody; in the South it earns deserved hatred by its destructiveness. Bobolinks reach the southeastern coast of the United States the last half of April just as rice is sprouting and at once begin to pull up and devour the sprouting kernels. Soon they move on to their northern breeding grounds, where they feed upon insects, weed seeds, and a little grain. When the young are well on the wing, they gather in flocks with the parent birds and gradually move southward, being then generally known as reed birds. They reach the rice fields of the Carolinas about August 20, when the rice is in the milk. Then until the birds depart for South America planters and birds fight for the crop, and in spite of constant watchfulness and innumerable devices for scaring the birds a loss of 10 per cent of the rice is the usual result.

the loose shingles on the roof. The fire had gained such a headway when discovered that very little out of the house could be saved, and except the kitchen stove and a few other things down stairs. Mr. Parker lost a silver watch, some cash and a check, and the boy a gold watch and some money which were in a new suit of clothes, which also burned. Five hundred dollars insurance was carried by Mr. Parker in the Town of Janesville company. Some insurance was also carried on the house. The amount definitely is not known.

August Sornow has had his barn remodeled and built on a sixteen foot addition.

Mrs. Ray Edwards returned to her home near Beloit Monday, after an over Sunday visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Quarness.

Fred Albrecht lost one of his horses recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leverenz are rejoicing over the arrival of a son Thursday, May 4.

Thomas Heron is moving his house about twenty rods nearer his new barn.

Jake Miller of Brodhead spent Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. August Sornow.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winkelman were in Janesville Thursday company. The frequent rains recently while being very good for growing have much retarded farm work.

Mr. Winkelman visited at the home of Robert Willing and Mrs. Dora Selk one day last week.

WHO BUTCHERED BRYAN?
The butchering of Bryan in the Nebraska primaries is a case which is able to its source as the famous killing of Cock Robin, and the witnesses are more numerous.

Bryan was slaughtered in his home state by the adherents of Wilson, and there are no signs of regret echoing from the White House because of the result. Bryan made Wilson four years ago to be sure, but there has never been a minute when Wilson felt truly grateful. On the contrary, he always chafed under the consideration of Bryan's power in the party; and he was glad when occasion permitted him to raise a false issue upon which Bryan left the cabinet. The contemplation of Bryan in the democratic national convention of 1916 has never been a pleasing prospect to Wilson.

For he has vindicated Bryan's ability to sway conventions to his own manner of thinking. And Bryan's manner of thinking is not Wilson's manner, nor are Bryan's principles the principles of Wilson. We do not doubt that the quiet tip was sent from the White House to Nebraska to defeat Bryan.

Bryan accordingly has been defeated—but only for a season in the St. Louis convention. The trajectory of the Wilson men in Nebraska has temporarily overcome the unsuspecting friends of Bryan, but the latter will be more alert next time. Their hour will come when they go to the polls in November. They will not forget who butchered Bryan this spring—and the killing which they will make will be gratifyingly gory.

JEFFRIS' CANDIDACY.
That the candidacy of Malcolm G. Jeffris of this city for the nomination on the republican ticket of United States senator, is evincing statewide interest is shown by the press comments that are leading newspapers of the state see fit to feature upon the situation. All consider Mr. Jeffris as a genuine two-handed fighter who will not let the grass grow under his feet and in this they are correct.

It is going to be a hard fight at best, a battle royal between truth and misrepresentation, but the record of the present incumbent on matters of national importance should be in Mr. Jeffris' favor. There is no question where Jeffris stands on matters of vital interest to republicans of the state and nation and his stand is not of one variety today and another tomorrow, to meet political exigencies.

Jeffris is a self-made man, self-educated, and he understands conditions that confront the average citizen. He is alive to their interests and will conserve them as far as possible. He is just the man to take his bearings into his confidence and explain facts in such a convincing manner that the truths and untruths can be easily distinguished.

All over the state Jeffris organizations are being perfected and there has never been such a uniformity of spirit to redeem the state, not only from the governor's chair down, but from the governor's chair up, even to the halls of congress, of men who are party traitors.

THE REST ROOM.
The unselfish work of the ladies who are soliciting funds for the proposed rest room to be established in some down town district where it will be available to the public use, deserves the hearty co-operation of the business and professional men of the city.

It is new work for the ladies who have been impressed for the work or have volunteered their services and the largest undertaking that the ladies of the city have ever attempted. It is worthy of particular note to understand that the ladies are not asking the business men to make all the contributions needed, but are giving their share as well as individuals and as club members.

The need of a rest room or public comfort station, is apparent to all who have made any study of the situation. Ultimately it is hoped the city can establish such a building in the Corn Exchange. In fact it can be said that the city authorities are now looking into the legal status of the title of the plot of ground where the old fountain stood, with this in view. In the meantime the proposed rest room can be established and its value and worth estimated and the new building, if erected later, will know just what to contend with and what to overcome.

Perhaps the business men of the city will be more liberal when they fully consider the hundreds of their patrons who will use such a rest room on visits to the city and during their shopping hours. It will be available not only to out of town visitors, but also to the citizens as well, and will be invaluable to the young women working in the factories and down town offices who feel the need of just a place to refresh themselves between their hours of work.

Money is needed to assure the success of the plan and it is to be hoped the ladies will be successful and the business men will give them their hearty co-operation and support in a financial way that will be substantial.

IS SATISFACTORY.
Germany has answered the last note of President Wilson, compiled, doubtless, by Col. House, and signed by Secretary of State Lansing, in a manner which the president declares is satisfactory. Evidently the administration discovered that the United States as a whole did not want war with Germany or any European power and that they much preferred that he confine his efforts to the Mexican situation.

However, the note is pronounced satisfactory and the jingoist who preached war at once is heretofore of an idea again. However, the plan for preparing the United States to meet an emergency is going on and it is to be hoped that before any emergency arises this country will be in a position to enforce any just demands it makes upon any nation relative to its position as a world power.

The people are satisfied with the attitude of the government in accepting the note in its entirety although some firebrands would have us believe it is a studied insult rather than a pledge of promise for the future. However, a careful perusal of the contents of the last diplomatic paper from Berlin is convincing that Germany means to do as they say and all questions of a break in diplomatic relations is avoided for the present at least.

SPRING FEVER.
This is about the time of the year that the annual recurrence of spring fever appears. It afflicts men in various forms. In some cases it is an appeal to the out of doors for long walks, hunt for flowers, and even encourages some to delve and dig in the soft soil to make a garden that will be a joy during the summer months. Others are affected by the germ of laziness. They prefer quiet and rest. They long to be left alone and permitted to sleep late in the morning, rest and not work at all. Everything drags and life is a burden. While it lasts the epidemic of spring fever is hard to overcome and thus far has baffled the wisdom of the physicians who have been consulted.

The newspapers make farming seem so attractive now, that the overworked office man hardly knows whether he wants a six weeks' vacation fishing trip, or to plow up and seed down a fifty acre lot of corn.

Formerly the school children used to walk out in the country and gather spring flowers, and now they are willing to go if someone will take them in an automobile.

After denouncing our fearful young men for not having courage to enlist in the army, some of our senators will vote to dodge action on the Brandeis nomination for another month.

The old-fashioned school theory about fitting a boy for agriculture is to give him a course from which all forms of agriculture have been carefully excluded.

The fact that a man keenly regrets our lack of preparedness does not mean that he will let any of his clerks attend the training camps this summer.

The committee on credentials at the Sunday school convention never has to settle any disputes between contending delegates.

The man who reproaches his wife for spending time on bridge is sometimes the same one who forgets to attend the party primaries.

Leather has become so scarce that wooden heels have to be used, but of course our women friends couldn't reduce the height of their heels.

Some people's idea of helpful exercise at garden work is sitting on a lawn chair and telling the hired man where to dig.

It is about time for the politicians to show their quadrangular concern about the welfare of your family.

Many people are moving in spring, and the real collector also has to move rapidly to collect his bills.

The Daily Novelette

Princess Tao-Wing.
While the water lilies warble,
While the yencibirds do swim;
While the great god Foo-shi liveth,
My love will never grow dim!
(Translated from the Chinese.)
"I am bored," yawned the Princess Tao-Wing. "All my honorable ancestors yawn within me. I think I'll try this social service I hear so much about. This ennui is fierce!" (See Munch Wagon's "Loose Speech of Noble Families.")
And the Princess Tao-Wing disguised herself as a middle class person by donning her cheapest street suit, seven hundred dollar one, and hid herself to the Sing Chop Mission and asked to be told of some bereaved family that she could console.

"Well," replied the superintendent, "there's Hop Lee. He just lost his wife. And then there's Ching Lee, his brother, just around the corner, the honest fisherman whose only boat burned up."
"How fearfully terrible!" shuddered the Princess Tao-Wing. And she went to call on the sorrowing widow, only not having much of a memory for names, she went to the house of Ching Lee, the man who lost his boat.

"Oh, Ching Lee, I am truly prostrated at your great loss!" she said. "Oh, that's all right," said Ching Lee. "She was never much good. She was never to be trusted, anyway. She was wide in the seams!"
"Oh, shame, Ching Lee!" cried the princess, who was a model of propriety.
"Ridiculous old thing," said Ching Lee. "I offered her to my mate, but he wouldn't take her off my hands. I had my eye on another one long before I lost her."
"Oh, Ching Lee!" cried the Princess Tao-Wing. And she did and never monkeyed more with charity.

On the Spur of the Moment
ROY K. MOULTON

When mother goes on a trip, Even for a single day, Father chirps, "Yip, Yip-Yaddy-Ye." He bubbles over with joy, As cheerful as any boy, And he says: "Now I'm free For a four hours' spree, And I'll hit the spots That are high, by gee." When he ambles homeward at eventide To change his suit and his shirt, He can't find collar, He can't find tie, For his dude he seaches Low and high, And the house is lonely beyond compare.

It's plain that there's something missing there, And he fumes and frets And worries and sweats And the home seems filled With vain regrets. And he fells very plain to see That he'll find no joy in his evening spree. Then he sits him down With a darksome frown, And he grabs some paper and grabs a pen With a whoop of joy He has wired: "Come home on the 11:1."

Uncle Abner.
A star ball player must spend about all his salary trying to live up to the automobiles that are presented to him by an admiring public.
A feller who is paying alimony to two or three ex-wives can be pardoned for indulging in a bit of pessimism occasionally.

There are just about as many home-ly women as there are home-ly men in this country, but the former are better hands at concealin' the fact. There are times when even a lodge button doesn't guarantee you that a feller is going to give you a square deal.

Many a feller is judged by the cigars that are named after him. Hank Thomas and Red Peters are such bitter enemies that they vote different tickets every four years just to knock each other out. There are a lot of book critics in this country who couldn't get one of their own published on a bet. It takes a man a long time to get rich by saving cigar coupons.

There is only one thing more un-reliable than boardin' house hash and that is boardin' house gossip. The trouble with a good many ball players is that they do too much battin' at night and not enough in the daytime.

The Highbrow.
May is a highbrow, for she's been away to college. And she has picked up quite a bit of ornamental knowledge. Mother's manners are passe and father's are just horrid. Mary comments on them in a manner which is just tortuous. Old folks don't know how to eat, and their meals are obsolete.

Old folks don't know how to dress, and Mary is explaining. What to wear and how to act when they are entertaining. Dad must throw his pipe away and wear his coat at dinner. Ma must buy a poodle dog if she would be a winner. They must learn the icy stare, and shake hands up in the air.

But this course of training is at most but temporary. Fate is going to play a neat and nifty joke on Mary. When she marries, and she will, for sure some day or other, She will be old-fashioned like her father and her mother. Can't be so all-fired polite When you're married. Ain't it right?

GUN WITHOUT BARREL SHOOT SEVEN MILES

Woman is Sponsor for New Invention Which Has Been Tested Showing Marvelous Results.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
New York, May 8.—Mrs. Kathryn M. Stanton, whose husband, F. McMillan Stanton, is an officer of several Michigan corporations capitalized at millions of dollars, has announced that she has aided personally and financially in the perfection of a war gun which:
1. Has been tested in model form with marvelous results by generals in the United States army.
2. Uses no powder, chemicals or springs for its discharge.
3. Has an effective range of seven or eight miles.
4. Shoots out eggs or glass balls without breaking them in the discharge.
5. Shoots out fifty balls instantly or one ball every hour.

Mrs. Kathryn M. Stanton.

6. Can wreck trenches, vessels or appliances.
7. Can be operated by one woman.
8. Can plant fifty balls within a radius of six feet at a range of a mile and a half, as was actually done with a smaller model at Fort Hamilton and Sandy Hook.
9. Can be placed on the grass and fired without recoil.
10. Weighs about 300 pounds.
11. Can be fired as simply, quickly and comparatively inexpensively.
12. Hurts missiles from a flat surface.
13. May drive other sorts of guns out of existence.
14. Is named by its inventor "The Beautiful Kathryn."

"The gun," she calls it a gun. I call it a thing—is really the harnessing of centrifugal motion," said Mrs. Stanton. "The power can be generated by any sort of engine. About 80 per cent of the power generated is used to fire a small model at Fort Hamilton and Sandy Hook, using an electric motor of less than one horsepower. At a range of 500 yards two balls were hurled into a circle about the size of the top of the table. (He indicated a table having a radius of about two feet.) The gun is exactly accurate, except as the ball is subject to external influences, as soon as the range is determined. The velocity of the ball before it is released governs its range. This velocity is determined automatically. The release is a part of the gun.

"We hope for a range of seven or eight miles, but it will not pierce armor plate at that distance. Its principal use, I think, will be with a high trajectory, but it can be used with a flat trajectory."

"The principle of the gun is not new. It was tried by Russia some time ago, but the experimenters used a barrel and this spoiled the weapon's accuracy."

"It is the most practical thing in the world, because it is so simple. Also, it is foolproof. It wears longer and is far less expensive than the powder-using guns. It does not require special machinery for its manufacture."

The Phrase "Mere Man."
In his book, "The Pulse of the World: Fleet Street Memories," Malcolm Stark gives what he believes is the origin of the expression "mere man." A Scottish doctor, he says, wrote as follows:
The earliest use of the phrase known to me is in the shorter catechism, where it is said, "No mere man since the fall is able in this life perfectly to keep the commandments." The phrase caught on in Scotland and was probably brought to England shortly after the union. The only difficulty in the way of this theory is that it allows barely two centuries for the English mind to see the joke.
This last sentence is indeed carrying the war into the enemy's camp.

Appropriate Name.
It is entirely proper that the world's most southern city, located in the north of Tierra del Fuego, in latitude 55, should bear a name sounding as much like winter wind as Ushuala. The Effects of Phylorhea are such that any physician will advise the cure.

Almost any layman knows that the formation of pus in the body is a sign of serious disease, and that if the system continues to absorb pus for any length of time it must become thoroughly poisoned.

When a person is suffering from Phylorhea, pus is being formed constantly around the teeth and discharged more or less freely into the mouth. This pus is either absorbed by the tissues of the mouth, increasing the infection, or it is swallowed and goes into the stomach and intestines, being taken up by the lymphatics of the intestines.

AUTO IN SOMERSAULT KILLS MADISON MAN

WALTER KERN, AGED 24, FATALITY INJURED NORTH OF CITY SUNDAY MORNING.

DRIVER SLIGHTLY HURT

Alton Davidson, of Verona, Received Only Minor Injuries When Machine Dives Into Air on Level Highway.

Walter Kern, aged twenty-four years, whose home is at 1510 Maple avenue, Madison, was killed and Alton Davidson, of Verona, Wis., received minor injuries when Davidson's automobile turned a complete somersault near the J. L. Robb farm, four and one-half miles northwest of Janesville early Sunday morning.

Kern's chest was so crushed when hurled from the car as it catapulted through the air, and for one that he died from internal hemorrhages an hour after the accident, while two physicians vainly sought to have his life. The accident was most remarkable in that Davidson received no serious injuries while his companion, Kern, was virtually crushed to death.

The two young men were coming to Janesville from Madison about six o'clock in the morning. Davidson was driving the Ford touring machine down the macadam road and the highway at this point is considered the best country thoroughfare in the county. According to Davidson, they were traveling between fifteen and twenty miles per hour when they approached the Robinson farm.

Down a slight grade, the road is down a slight grade but not enough to add materially to the speed of the machine. The surface of the road was somewhat slippery from moisture and all these conditions combined in making the accident a fatal one.

Davidson stated Sunday that he remembered striking a stone in the road and the machine started to sway to the side of the highway. It appears that Davidson had installed a new accelerator, or foot-pedal, on the machine and it is barely possible that the driver, in attempting to use the brakes, stepped on the accelerator, and this was the case the speed of the light auto was increased suddenly as the machine was skidding toward the bank.

The automobile did not turn over on its side, but rather turned a most astounding somersault in the air, going completely over. Kern fell out and in some unknown manner received the fatal wound in his chest. Davidson declares that he went thirty feet through the windshield and fell on his back in the road.

Others who have investigated the accident are of the opinion that Davidson never left his seat behind the wheel when the car was making its turn in the air. Their conclusions are based upon the fact that had Davidson gone through the windshield as he is under the impression he did, he would have been seriously injured. The accident happened so quickly and unexpectedly that no one appeared to be able to give a correct version of how it happened.

When Davidson recovered consciousness, he found Kern to the side of the road almost into the ditch. After the somersault the machine evidently careened about the road. The front of the machine was completely smashed and no great extent. The automobile shows no signs of being in such a serious condition.

Received Small Cut. Davidson received a severe cut above the right eye and several severe bruises about the body. His injuries, however, were slight. The body of Kern was taken to the Ryan undertaking rooms and Dr. Frank Ryan, county coroner, made an investigation of the facts. Davidson was allowed to go to the hotel and remain there until the arrival of District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie, who released Davidson from further custody as it was decided that an inquest would not be necessary, death being due to a fatal mechanical accident.

The body of Kern will be shipped to Warrenton, Virginia, where the young man's parents live, at three o'clock this afternoon. A brother residing in Washington, D. C., ordered the remains be sent to that city yesterday.

LADIES TO BE GUESTS OF M. E. BROTHERHOOD

Methodist Church Brotherhood Will Have Ladies As Their Guests at Last Meeting Tomorrow Night.

For their annual ladies' night banquet Tuesday evening, the Methodist Church Brotherhood has secured as the guest of the evening the Rev. C. H. Beal, D. D., of Milwaukee. At this meeting the men and their wives are invited and in addition to the speaker an excellent musical program has been arranged.

Dr. Beal is a speaker of state-wide note and is a most interesting personage. He is the pastor of the Grand Avenue Congregational church in Milwaukee and is considered a great man by all denominations of the state. The brotherhood was very fortunate in securing Dr. Beal for Tuesday evening.

The full orchestra from the School for the Blind has also been secured.

This banquet is open to everyone. Supper will be served promptly at 6:30 o'clock and will be followed by the address and program.

ALFALFA SPEAKER MEETS DIRECTORS AT WEEKLY DINNER

Prof. Grabel, Secretary of Wisconsin Alfalfa Order, Outlines Campaign at Commercial Club.

Prof. Grabel of Madison, secretary of the Wisconsin Alfalfa Order, met the members of the board of directors of the Janesville Commercial club this morning at their weekly meeting and luncheon and explained the cause of the alfalfa propaganda being waged in Rock county by the order which he represents.

Prof. Grabel spoke at the high school this afternoon and will make a second address this evening to all who care to attend and learn about the growing of forage crops.

Alfalfa is now being raised and preached because it rapidly raises farm land values and because the agriculturist must cultivate that crop which will establish a financial equilibrium or ratio return in equality with the value of the land on which it is cultivated, he said.

Alfalfa and corn are the two big crops for the farmer and from them comes the greatest financial return. Both the grower and the consumer are benefited by the alfalfa growing community. In the campaign on May 23, which will be held throughout the county with demonstrations and lectures for all interested farmers the alfalfa experiments and alfalfa growing will be vividly shown.

A. C. Oleson of Elkhorn, city attorney and cashier of the First National bank there, filed a grievance with the directors because of their arrest and fine for violating the city ordinance regarding the driving of an automobile past a street car.

Mr. Oleson in his communication thought that the arrest and fine an injustice and requested the Commercial club directors to take the matter up with the city authorities to see what could be done to secure the return of the fine, some cents over twelve dollars.

Members of the board voted to consider the matter and it was directed to City Attorney William H. Dougherty, also a member of the board.

In the absence of H. H. Bliss, chairman of the publicity committee, Joseph E. Connors reported on the conference of the Commercial club committee and Secretary Harry O. Nowlan, Frank Croak and W. N. More of the Janesville Park association regarding the leasing of the fair grounds for the alfalfa growing campaign.

The president of the circus company had no proposition to offer and neither did the circus company, and as a result nothing definite came out of the meeting. The idea has not been abandoned, however, but will be given further consideration in the future.

In acting on the suggestion of O. Howe a motion was made and carried for the president to appoint three members weekly as a visiting committee to call on the various small manufacturers and producers in the city. Mr. Howe, Orville Morse and Louis Levy composed the committee appointed for this week. They are to select the factories to be visited and report at the meeting a week from today.

The Beloit Business Men's association still entertains the belief that the Janesville Commercial club is active in the alfalfa propaganda in Janesville and in a communication directed to Secretary Peter V. Kuhn, and read by him today, request the co-operation of the local body in a celebration to give to Beloit and the surrounding territory a propaganda campaign.

Since the Commercial club directors are to do with the local celebration, Secretary Kuhn was instructed to write Beloit to that effect.

Garret H. Parker, regarding a bill at present before the United States senate regarding a return to former regulations of the parcels post laws and third class mail matter which it passes, will meet thousands of dollars saved annually by advertisers who use small booklets or pamphlets. Mr. Parker and Secretary Kuhn were instructed to draw up a resolution favoring the return to the former law.

PARTIAL FRANCHISE IS SOUGHT BY WOMEN

Speaker at Minneapolis Convention Gives View on Obtaining Votes.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 8.—When legislatures refuse to submit a suffrage amendment to the people and when other efforts to obtain complete enfranchisement fail, then a fight should be started for a partial suffrage measure, which probably would prove an entering wedge to greater liberty and ultimate enfranchisement, according to Catherine Waugh McCulloch, of Chicago, one of the principal speakers today before the Mississippi Valley Suffrage Conference.

"Women of the Mississippi Valley have for many years been unsuccessful in obtaining full suffrage by amendment of their state constitutions," she said.

"Because of the difficulty in securing these amendments, a shorter path to partial victory has been hit upon. School suffrage in various states led to larger suffrage in Illinois which allowed women to vote on almost all propositions and for almost all city, township, draining and tax officials and for presidential electors. This law has been upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court in several decisions on the ground that the positions of the officers named in the law have been created not by the constitution, but by the legislature and that therefore the legislature had the power to prescribe the qualifications of the electors of such officers."

"The argument sustaining this law would hold good in other states, though the officers named might be different in each state. Such a law in most of our states would need the votes of only a bare majority of the legislators, not a two-thirds majority as would be necessary with an amendment. Then, too, there would be no need of an expensive campaign in every district school house to get out to vote, as such a law would not be submitted to the electors."

"In every one of these states, whatever its constitution, a presidential woman suffrage law would be constitutional, for no state constitution can prevent it. The United States constitution provides that electors of president and vice-president are to be selected in the manner provided by the respective legislatures."

"Various methods of appointing these electors have been tried in the past, and Illinois has the latest variation in allowing women to help in this selection, though Illinois women may not yet vote for all state, county or judicial officers. Presidential suffrage bills have been introduced in other legislatures. Although defeated in these legislatures, the case will not be due to fear of unconstitutionality. The legislators did not want any form of woman suffrage."

"There may be other portions of the elective franchise of more immediate value to women, and franchise by which women's vote might be more quickly felt, but no other franchise appeals so much to the imagination. To be able to help choose the ruler of this Republic looms higher in the firmament than the parliamentary franchise, the bright goal which has been sought by the women of Europe. After women have possessed this franchise some of the cases will not be a political influence much greater than they would have received by voting for mayor or governor only."

"Remember that a half loaf is better than no bread, and it proves to be possible to induce a legislature to submit a full suffrage amendment, or to persuade Congress to pass the federal amendment, ask for the half loaf and Illinois in voting for a few local officers and for the electors of the first officers of our nation."

"This may be the entering wedge that will force greater liberty and bring nearer the day of full enfranchisement."

"RIGHT WORD" OFTEN HARD TO CHOOSE.

Study of Dictionary is a Profitable Habit for Business Men.

Inability to choose the right word often places a speaker in an embarrassing position. Many business men lose much valuable time because they find it difficult to express what they want to say when they dictate their correspondence. Greater freedom and accuracy in speaking and writing can be acquired by studying a dictionary. A few minutes devoted to the study of words and their meaning each day will in a short time result in great benefit to anyone who will put that practice to a test.

The New Universities Dictionary being offered to readers of this paper is particularly adapted to aid those who wish to acquire greater familiarity with the English language. It contains all the new words which have come into common and proper use in recent years. Its definitions are simple and accurate, making it possible to choose words that will best serve the purpose of correct speaking and writing. Many of the new words that have been brought into use through such specialized activities as war, aviation, golf, baseball and other forms of sports have been conveniently classified in supplementary dictionaries.

STATE EXECUTIVES WILL MEET IN UTAH

Secretary Riley Prepares Program for Conference Which is To Be Held At Salt Lake City in June.

Salt Lake City, May 8.—How American states can help meet the commercial and economic conditions after the world war is the big question to be discussed at the ninth annual meeting of the Governors' conference which opens here Tuesday, June 27th. Executives from most of the forty-eight states are expected to be present at the time.

It is held by the governors who are arranging the program that while preparations for the federal government, preparation for peace and for commercial agricultural and industrial development under the new conditions which will obtain when world peace is established is a matter to be handled by the states individually, and that the greatest efficiency can be secured through uniformity of action by the states insofar as practicable. Some of the problems involved in this economic readjustment according to Miles C. Riley, secretary of the Governors' conference, are: mobilization of American resources, industries and commerce, distribution of the immigrant and land settlement policies. It is likely also that some phases of the general subject, preparedness for national defense and the relation of the state therein, will be presented and discussed by the governors.

"The present world war," said Secretary Riley, "has forced upon Europe greater efficiency in production and distribution, a quicker moving, less wasteful commercial system, which has been so thoroughly organized as to include all business from the first steps in agriculture to the last steps in manufacture and transportation. The new methods, with their efficiency and convenience, have come to stay. This movement has been intensified by the war and will become even more intense in the efforts of nations to recoup and build up when the war ends. International competition will be keener than ever before. It is America's problem to be prepared to meet these new conditions."

TO DECORATE NEW YORK POLICE HEROES FOR VALOR.

New York, May 8.—The annual parade of the police department and the presentation of medals for valor will take place here today. It will be led by Commissioner Woods and reviewed by Mayor Mitchell.

Six additions to the medal men of the department will be made, Mayor Mitchell pinning the coveted insignia on the coats of five patrolmen and a sergeant. The department medal of honor goes to Policeman John A. McCarran, who captured a burglar at the corner of Bowery and Houston street.

The policeman was wounded three times, but, finally making out the form of the man in a dark hall, opened fire. The man surrendered. Patrolman John C. Caspers will get the Rhineland medal for an attempt to arrest "Andy" Lewis, cocaine pedlar. Unarmed, Caspers pursued Lewis after he had been wounded twice by the fugitive. He failed to make an arrest because his wounded leg became paralyzed.

Sergeant Alexander C. Anderson will get the Isaac Bell Medal for rescuing August Nelson from the icy waters of the East River, December 27, 1915.

The Peter F. Meyer medal will go to Policeman Franklin S. Traver for a similar rescue of William Williams, a boatman's mate of the U. S. S. Wasp. The rescued man died of pneumonia.

The medal of the Automobile club of America will be awarded to Policeman Edward F. Doyle for valorous conduct following the explosion of an ammonia. He entered the building after he had been warned that another explosion was imminent, and although badly hurt when the explosion occurred went back for a man he had seen lying unconscious in the engine room.

The Brooklyn Citizen's medal for the capture of a man who had mortally injured another in Hicks street, Brooklyn. He pursued the man, who was brandishing a revolver, and when the fugitive hid in a hallway and fired through the only door leading to it, Hegerly forced the door, and captured the slayer.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

William S. Hart, the noted film star who appears regularly in features, makes a specialty of playing western characters. He himself was raised on the plains of North Dakota among the Sioux Indians, so he knows something about making them true to life. But while his delineations constitute a wide gallery of western figures, he prefers one special type. This is the western "bad man."

"I like him best," says Mr. Hart, "because he is the most maligned person west of the Mississippi, and I enjoy presenting him for what he truly is. I knew some famous western bad men in the early days of the Dakotas, but I never met one whose badness was indicative of the real man."

"The conventional bad man has become a veritable studio lay-figure; my present mission in life is to put some humanity in him. Something of my wish seems to have been conveyed to the men who write scenarios for me; for they frequently write me bad man parts. Heretofore, the consistent villain has been given largely as contrast to the hero, or to work some piece of business in the plot; but as the central figure, without complete conversion from life-time habits, I believe he is more or less of a novelty."

Florence La Badie

In Fine New Series Two of the eight new feature productions starring Florence La Badie, to be released have been completed and will be released in the near future. "The Fugitive," a five-part drama, will be the first picture in the series. In this drama Miss La Badie appears in the role of a young heiress who accepts exile in preference to having her widowed father sent to prison. The story is novel in theme and replete with action.

Psychology, treated from an angle never before attempted in motion picture production, is the theme of "Woman, Saint and Devil," the second picture in the series. It deals with a quadruple personality, and is found in a recent discovery by a celebrated psychologist.

In a recent interview, Miss Nansen said:

"Florida is not, as some critics have declared, a creature of impulse, driven by every passing wave of passion or inclination. She is a true woman with the heart and instincts of her sex. But she is brave enough, when a deep love possesses her soul, to give herself over to it, regardless of what the world may say. She is a character in whom I am deeply interested, because her humanness. Faced by the most trying climax that can arise in a woman's life, when her very soul is placed upon the rack of self-sacrifice, the metal of her heart rings true. At the cost of her honor, she still holds to her great love and even at the last hour when the dark shadows of fate envelop her, her woman's nobler nature saves her lover from a fearful fate. Floria La Tosca is the most interesting part I have ever played. I created the character at the Royal Theatre in Copenhagen, at the special request of the author.

G. F. HYDE OF LA CROSSE who has been one of the attractions of the Carroll College Glee club this year, is to assist the V. M. C. A. men's chorus in their concert next Wednesday evening. Mr. Hyde is a musical genius, and his sketch, "The Dumb Musician," is a big "hit." In it he plays a boy with nine different instruments, and each of them is played. This feature alone is well worth the price of admission.

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

—By—
MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to
MRS. THOMPSON
in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-two years old and am engaged to a young man four years my senior. We are expected to be married this June, but an unexpected thing happened that made such a thing impossible.

At least all most impossible. My mother had a third stroke of paralysis, which has made her helpless. There is no one to take care of her except me. I have a married sister who refuses to do so. She has three children and she says that she would not take the added responsibility of keeping mother. The man I am engaged to is not willing to start our life together with someone sick in the house and my brother-in-law is not willing to furnish a little money to have mother cared for, but it could not be enough to make her very comfortable. We would have to have some woman who would like to have to stay with her, and I am afraid she would not get very good care. The man I am to marry is patient and says he is not willing to let our marriage. I don't know what to do. Sister says that I owe something to myself, but it seems to me I can't leave mother when she needs me so very much. What do you think I should do?

It would be equal to leave your mother when she has but such a short time to live. One rarely lasts long after a third stroke. If you were to marry now and desert your mother, I am sure you would reproach yourself the rest of your life. It must be a very selfish man who is not willing to make your burden just as light as he can. I don't think of your marrying a man who is so thoughtless that he adds to your unhappiness at this time. A husband should be a helpmate in times of trouble. Do your duty to your mother, little girl, and I am sure you will never regret it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a boy of seventeen and I am in love with a freshman girl at high school. She has been very rude to me. I live near her and she talks home with her from school. Then one day she told me she didn't ever want to do it again. What can I do to win her love?

A JOHN.

A little freshman girl is too young to love you. Talk to her with her now and perhaps in a year or two she will let you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am

At present Mrs. Smith is vice president of the General Federation and has been identified with the club's work in Ohio for ten years.

There are five clubs in Columbus which are members of the General Federation. Each local club will send delegates.

Mrs. Charles Howe and Mrs. C. C. Pavey will represent the City Federation. Mrs. Mary Willberger, Mrs. Ivor Hughes and Mrs. C. B. Galbreath, the Lecture club, Mrs. G. G. White the Alla Podria and Mrs. George Washburn the Sorosis.

The meet is to be held at the Hotel Astor. The opening session will occur on Wednesday evening, May 24 with 30,000 delegates attending.

Mrs. Lewis C. Laylin, who is the Ohio secretary of the General Federation, will attend.

Household Hints

SALADS

A New Salad (serves four persons). One cup celery and one cup carrots put through meat grinder. Mix with one cup walnuts or peanuts, grind again. Mix well with three-fourths cup salad dressing. Serve on lettuce leaf. Second grinding is for the purpose of thoroughly blending ingredients so the flavor is completely changed.

Cucumber Salad—Peel two good-sized cucumbers and one medium-sized onion; chop and let stand in salt water two hours; drain. Serve on lettuce leaf with mayonnaise. Serves six persons.

Some Combinations—Lettuce, one-half tomato, chopped cucumber and green pepper. Lettuce, cream cheese, chopped tomatoes and olives. Lettuce, wilted spinach, hard-boiled eggs.

Tomatoes with mint chopped fine, in French dressing.

Dandelion, watercress and tomatoes.

These green vegetables contain necessary salts for the blood, the lemon or vinegar furnish the acid, and the oil an easily digested fat.

SOME CANDIES THE CHILDREN CAN MAKE

Maple Caramels—One young sugar, one-half pound maple sugar, one-half cup cream. Heat slowly and when it begins to boil add one tablespoon butter and one-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar. Cook slowly until it snaps in cold water. Pour on buttered tins and mark in squares while warm.

Chocolate Caramels—Take one cup each of grated chocolate, milk, sugar and molasses, piece of butter size of an egg. Boil until it drops hard in cold water. Pour on buttered dish, mark in squares while warm.

Butter Scotch—Five tablespoons molasses, four of sugar, four of water and two tablespoons butter. Boil until it is brittle when dropped in cold water. Put in a pinch of soda before taking off stove. Pour on buttered tins. When cold enough mark into squares.

Ice Cream Taffy—Two cups sugar, one tablespoon butter, water enough to dissolve the sugar. Boil eight minutes. Add one-half teaspoon cream of tartar and boil seven minutes.

Take from fire and add one teaspoonful vanilla extract. Pour on buttered plates. When cool enough to handle pull until white.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

To Take Fruit or any kind of stain out of table linen—When fresh, put on common laundry starch, dampened enough to spread over stain.

To Keep Juice in Cherry or Berry Pie—Prepare crust same as for any pie, and fill the outer crust with fruit. Sprinkle over the fruit one heaping tablespoon of minute tapioca and the amount of sugar required over the tapioca. Cover and crimp the edge as usual. You will have the most delicious pie, containing all the juice.

When Cooking Beans, get a sour apple, slice it very finely and add it to the gravy. This will impart a delicious flavor, which is a great improvement.

A Damp Cloth dipped in common soda will brighten tinware easily.

THE TABLE.

Squab Pie—Trim a deep dish with paste as for chicken pie, put in a layer of sliced sour apples, season with sugar and spice; add a layer of fresh lean pork, sliced thin, seasoned with salt and pepper, and thus place alternate layers of apple and pork until the dish is nearly full; put in a little water and cover with paste. Bake slowly until thoroughly done.

Liver Roast—Secure three pounds calf liver, skin well. Cut a deep pocket; salt and pepper. Mix two cups mashed potatoes, one onion cut fine, one egg, also half teaspoon celery salt. Fill the pocket and sew with a piece of bacon over the top. Place in covered roaster with three cups water, one large onion, half cup vinegar and two bay leaves. Pour onion soup or drawn butter over all. Roast in moderate oven from one to one and one-half hours. Add more water, thicken gravy. Serve on large platter garnished with parsley. This will serve five people.

YOUR GARDEN.

When planting onion sets plant a row of onion seed close to row of sets. When sets are gone you will have another row of onions ready to use.

GINGLES' JINGLES

JIM.

He's the cartoon back at Homeburg—he's the funny page of town, he's a modest kind of creature, never looking for renown, but we'd welcome Sunday papers minus of the colored sheet, just about as we would welcome Homeburg if we could not meet this unique familiar fellow, with his oddities, a flock, this unusual, quaint gazabo who will boost but never knock.

Yes he's odd, he's very much so, wears a tattered spike-tailed coat, and the rig in which he rambles would get any geezer's goat, his old horse can't cast a shadow, he's so scrawny and so thin, and his rig goes "squawk" and wobbles, to till run it is a sin. But we'd miss him should he leave us—we would mourn should he depart, for this guy though queer and ancient, has a kind and human heart; he's the landmark of our village, all our records he can trace, and when a guy has shuffled, you will always see his face—funerals are old Jim's diversion, he has trailed the line for years, he concludes each sad procession, but has drifted in the rear; since the auto's come in fashion, and the last ride is a race, Jim has missed the funeral sermons, 'cause he could not keep the pace—but they always find him waiting at the side of the hill burial place.

KEEPING EVERYBODY HAPPY

"This makes me feel as if I were going down to M—," a friend said to me one day, as we approached a railroad station. "I often used to come here at just about this time of day the summer we spent there."

"Too bad you aren't going there now," I said.

She gave herself a little shake of distaste. "Far from it," she said. "It gives me a tired-out feeling just to think of it."

The house at M— had been a beautiful cottage in a lovely situation. It did not seem possible to me that anyone could have helped enjoying it.

She Didn't Have To.

Work Hard, But—

"Yes," she said, "it was lovely, but it wasn't peaceful. I had two families there—my people and my husband's people—and I had to keep things going smoothly. I don't mean that they didn't get on perfectly well together, but I know how one person can be the center of a family like that, and you can imagine how hard it is. Then there was a good deal of trouble with the house because we were so far out, and I had to adjust all that, too. I mean I had to work hard, it was just trying to keep everybody happy that tired me."

Just trying to keep everybody happy?—How many women that must think so simply that no one can find a crevice to lodge a complaint in, just trying to please everyone's taste at the table, just trying to harmonize a family of strongly individual personalities to convince father that his son is not extravagant, and a son that his father is not stingy, to keep a maid good tempered when the family are late to meals, or bear the brunt of the family ill temper when a meal is late in appearing—just these and a hundred similar details of adjustment help to use up the average homemaker's nervous energy.

Every Mother an Adjustment Bureau

And in many cases she manages all this under the constant strain of the fear of being scolded. Every mother is an adjustment bureau of domestic complaints. The woman at the adjustment bureau in the big shop has no signature of a position, but she does not have the same nervous strain. To be sure, people are sometimes cross to her but it doesn't matter so much, because they are not the people she cares about. At the mother's adjustment bureau, on the other hand, the complaints are all from those she loves best and whose disapproval hurts her most. And mother's, somehow, never get used to being scolded, which, as I have remarked before, is incomprehensible because they get so much practice in endurance.

The epitaph over many a tired little mother who folds her weary hands and succumbs to some minor disease might well be:

"She gave daily of her vitality to all the machinery of family life, and had none left to save herself in the time of need."

TEMPERANCE LITERATURE OF THE W. C. T. U.

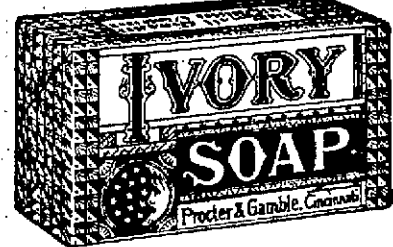

The fame of Mrs. Hooehlan's "Five O'clock Tea," known in song of other days, laid prestige in comparison with the five o'clock tea, and the number one cake, served by Mrs. Alfred Olsen to her temperance guests on Wednesday last. Mrs. Olsen and the cake and the tea, and Mrs. Olsen's revelation of "The Laws of the Highway," were features of the programme, and enjoyed by all.

We are happy to say that one of our state officers, Mrs. Eva C. Lewis, will speak in Jamesville the 17th of May. All are invited to hear this pleasing speaker.

Mrs. Lewis has been successful in reclaiming men to a better life, through temperance literature. Which consists of blotters, pennants, posters, etc., each bearing its message of temperance truth. One striking poster reads: "One boy in four is lost because of the traffic in alcohol! Your boy next, Mr. Voter!"

The local fund "grows apace" which is to be invested in temperance literature. Grateful hearts would welcome any contribution, however small, even "The widows' mite."

This temperance literature contains "Milk in parvo"—that is, much in a little. The purpose is to educate the people to make it impossible for temptation to stand in a legalized capacity at every street corner.

Therefore, let us strive to educate, to let in the light of immortal heavens behind the rampart of hills.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Letters may be addressed to Wm. A. BRADY, M. D., in care of the Gazette

SAFETY FIRST FOR PROSPECTIVE MOTHERS

The medical convention was discussing that most distressing condition, eclampsia, or convulsions, and some one emphasized the importance of insisting upon regular monthly urinalysis throughout the expectant period. The purpose of such an examination being, of course, to make sure that the kidneys are able to do the extra work placed upon them and to detect at the outset any indication of failure upon the part of these organs. An old, experienced practitioner finally arose, and in his laconic way, said it was all unnecessary making such examinations. His experience had taught him it was not worth while.

Which was all very impressive. But the other day that gentleman was arrested and jailed as a criminal. That is the type of man he was.

A young mother engaged her physician in the proper way long in advance of the first confinement. Everything was well managed. The result was all happy. Two years later, however, some "old women" succeeded in convincing her that it wasn't necessary to engage the doctor until the last few weeks. One afternoon she was visiting her mother. She was apparently well all along. A trifling accident frightened her. She at once went into convulsions. She was rushed to the hospital. Her baby died that night. The mother died next day. All so sudden—perhaps it could have been prevented by proper care. The "old women" sympathized with the bereaved husband and orphaned child. But that couldn't alter the fact that the "old women" were responsible for the calamity.

Every prospective mother who reads this and that would include every young wife, should bear in mind one thing: You can never consult your doctor too early, but you can call him too late. Eclampsia is a little trouble and apparently useless precaution than a sudden terrible complication which prepared, ness might forestall.

Your friends, your own mother, cannot advise you about these matters. What was all right in your mother's time is now all wrong. Doctors killed women by the score in the old days, through ignorance. Your mother's ways will not do for you. Your mother's doctor probably wouldn't understand modern methods at all.

Every prospective mother should, at the earliest possible moment, engage a good doctor, and a competent one whom the doctor recommends. "Safety first" is a pretty good motto for the woman soon to be confined. The risks involved are precisely the same as those involved in an appendicitis operation. Hence preparation is every thing.

Alopecia Areata.

Please tell me what causes alopecia areata? Is it a disease or a symptom?

I am a girl of twenty-two.

Answer—It is alopecia areata, not a disease, meaning "baldness in spots" instead of one big bald spot. It is due to different factors, constitution, disease, nervous disorders and sometimes parasitic. It is no more contagious than ordinary baldness (alopecia vulgaris). The hair will grow in again. The treatment must be determined by your condition.

Fractured Thigh Bone and Good Result.

Eleven months ago my wife fractured her right femur. Plaster casts and later heavy weights were kept on it. Today the right leg is three-fourths of an inch shorter than the other, but she scarcely limps. Then, besides, she still has pain in the limb. Would good treatment have given better results?

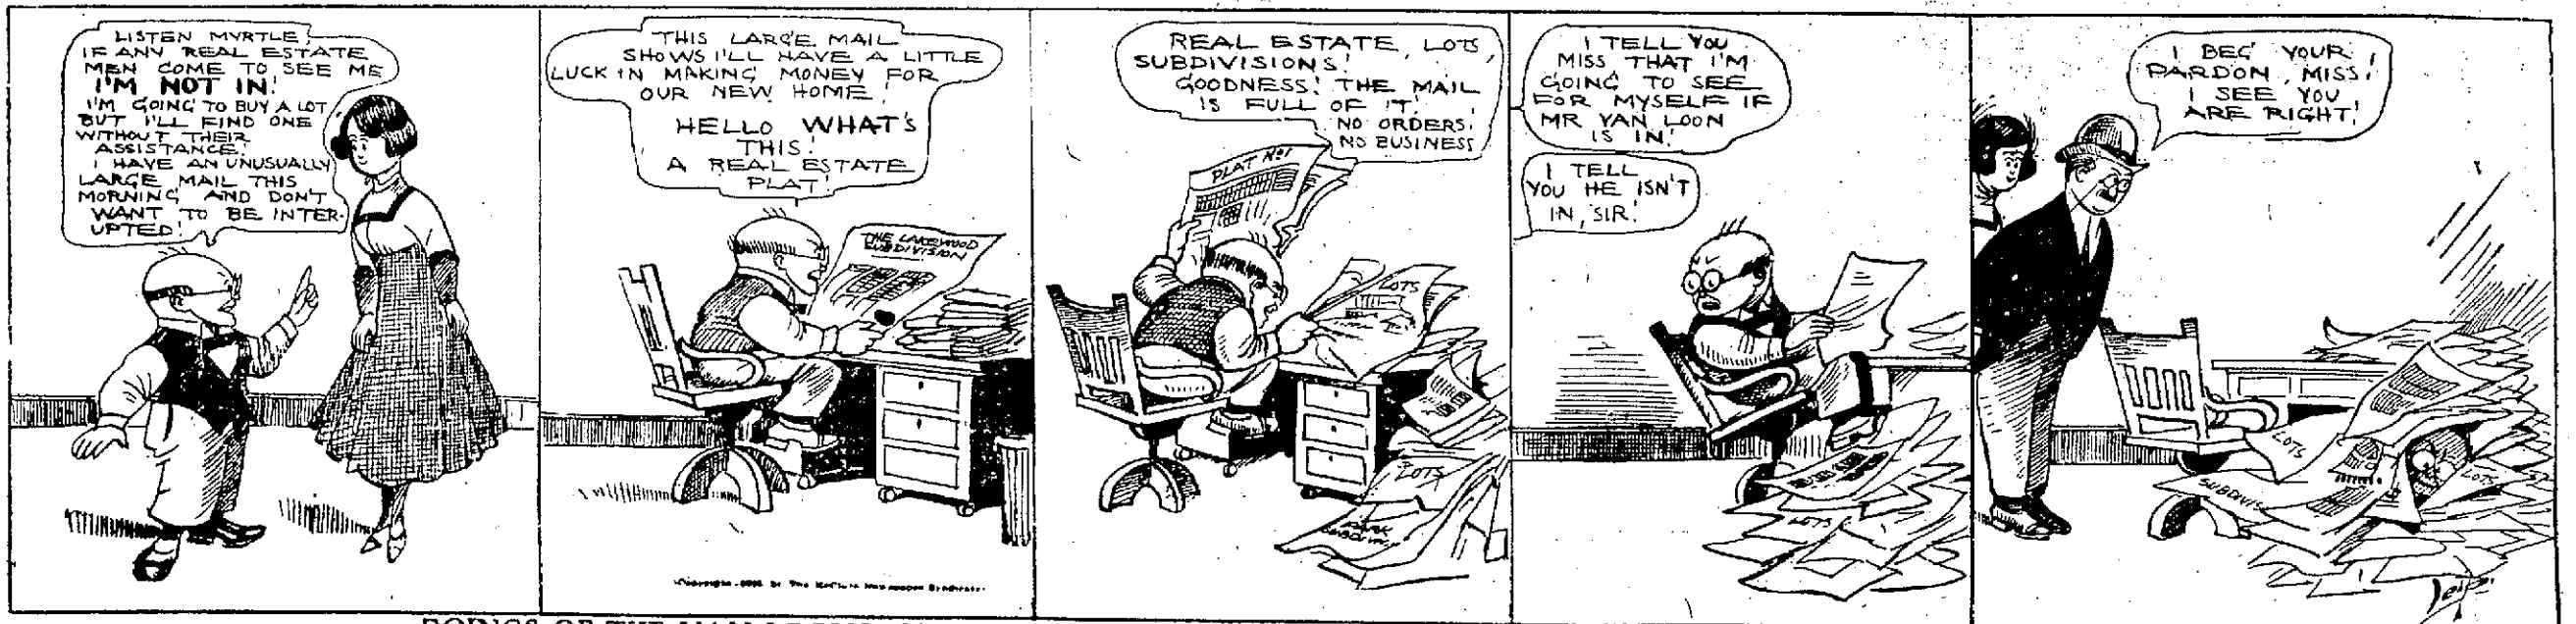

Answer—Your wife must have obtained excellent treatment, at least the very slight shortening would indicate such. Any adult who fractures the femur must expect to have some trouble for at least a year afterward. Thank your stars she is able to be about at all.

Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—longer coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lousy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

Pleasant Change

Valuable Advice To All.

Mrs. J. E. Kirtland, of 514 N. Madison street, Green Bay, is a happy woman these days. One does not have to look far for the reason. Her happiness comes from her remarkable change in health. Mrs. Kirtland recently made the following statement:

"It is certainly pleasant to get relief from catarrh. It seems almost like having a dream come true. I suffered for years and was all run down in every way and then one day I began to use Tanlac and soon I was feeling fine again."

"I was so run down and worn out, I continued Mrs. Kirtland, that I could hardly do my work sometimes. I was listless, lacked any kind of energy and would get exhausted with the least exertion. My stomach was not in very good shape and my appetite and digestion were poor. I was nervous and restless and did not sleep well. I was given to taking colds very easily and coughed and sneezed a great deal."

"As I say I started using Tanlac one day and before I had finished one bottle I was decidedly better. My catarrh does not trouble me so much now. My appetite is better and my digestion has improved so much that I can eat anything. I feel fine and wish to recommend Tanlac to all."

TANLAC the premier preparation which benefited Mrs. Kirtland so much may be obtained here at Smith's Drug Store.

CHAPTER II.

Beginning at the beginning and learning from the ground up was a long course for Bibbs at the sanitarium, with milk and "zwieback" as the basis of instruction; and the months were many and tiresome before he was considered near enough graduation to go for a walk leaning on a nurse and a cane. These and subsequent months saw the planning, the building and the completion of the new house, and it was to that abode of Bibbs that Bibbs was brought when the cane, without the nurse, was found sufficient to his support.

Edith met him at the station. "Well, well, Bibbs," she said, as he came slowly through the gates, the last of all the travelers from that train. "Do you think they ought to've let you come? You certainly don't look well!"

"But I certainly don't look better," he returned, in a voice as slow as his gait; a drawl that was a necessity, for when Bibbs tried to speak quickly he stammered. "Up to about a month ago it took two people to see me. They had to get me in a line between 'em'!"

Edith did not turn her eyes directly toward him again, after her first quick glance; and her expression, in spite of her, showed a faint, troubled distaste. She was nineteen, fair and slim, with small, unequal features, but a prettiness of color and a brilliancy of eyes that created a total impression close upon beauty. There was something about her, as kind old ladies say, that was very sweet; and there was something that was hurried and breathless. Bibbs bent upon her a steady, whimsical scrutiny as they stood at the curb, waiting for an automobile across the street to disengage itself from the traffic.

"That's the new car," she said. "Everything's new. We've got four now, besides Jim's. Roscoe's got two."

"Edith, you look—" he began, and paused.

"Oh, we're all well," she said briskly; and then, as if something in his tone had caught her as significant. "Well, how do I look, Bibbs?"

"You look—" He paused again, taking in the full length of her—trim, brown shoes, scant, rough skirt, coat of brown and green, and little rough hat in the mad mode—all suited to the October day.

"How do I look?" she insisted.

"You look," he answered, as his examination ended upon an incriminated watch of platinum and enamel at her wrist, "you look—expensive!"

"I expect I am," she laughed. "Do you want Claus to help you in?"

"Oh, no," said Bibbs. "I'm alive." And after a fit of panting subsequent to his climbing into the car unaided, he added, "Of course, I have to tell people!"

"We only got your telegram this morning," she said, as they began to move rapidly through the "wholesale district" neighborhood the station. "Mother said she'd hardly expected you this month."

"They seemed to be through with me up there in the country," he explained, gently. "At least they said they were, and they wouldn't keep me any longer, because so many really sick people wanted to get in. They told me to go home—and I didn't have any place else to go. It'll be all right, Edith; I'll sit in the woodshed until dark every day."

"Pshaw!" She laughed nervously. "Of course we're all of us glad to have you back."

"Yes," he said. "Father?"

"Of course! Didn't he write and tell you to come home?" She did not turn to him with the question. All the while she rode with her face directly forward.

"No," he said; "father hasn't written."

She flushed a little. "I expect I ought to've written something, or one of the boys—"

"Oh, no; that was all right."

"You can't think how busy we've all been this year, Bibbs. Of course we knew mamma was writing often, and—"

"Of course," he said, readily. "There's a chunk of coal fallen on your glove, Edith. Better flick it off" before it smears. My word! I'd almost forgotten how sooty it is here."

"We've been having very bright weather this month—for us." She blew the flake of soot into the air, seeming relieved.

He looked up at the dingy sky, wherein hung the disconsolate sun like a cold tin pan nailed up in a smoke-house by some lunatic, for a decoration. "Yes," said Bibbs. "It's very gay." A few moments later, as they passed a corner, "Aren't we going home?" he asked. "Your new driver is taking us out of the way, isn't he?"

"Good gracious!" she cried. "Didn't you know we'd moved? Didn't you know we were in the new house?"

"Why, no!" said Bibbs. "Are you?"

"We've been there a month! Good gracious! Didn't you know?" She broke off, flushing again, and then went on hastily: "Of course, mamma's never been so busy in her life; we all haven't had time to do anything but keep on the hop. Mamma couldn't even come to the station today. Papa's got some of his business friends and people from around the old-house neighborhood coming tonight for a big dinner and 'house warming'—dreadful kind of people—but mamma's got it all on her hands. She's never sat down a minute; and if she did, papa would have her up again before—"

"I Didn't Have Any Place Else to Go."

"Of course," said Bibbs. "Do you like the new place, Edith?"

"I don't like some of the things father would have in it, but it's the finest house in town, and that ought to be good enough for me! Papa bought one thing I like—a view of the Bay of Naples in oil that's perfectly beautiful. It's the first thing you see as you come in the front hall, and it's eleven feet long. But he would have that old fruit picture we had in the Murphy street house hung up in the new dining room. It's horribly out of date to have those things in dining rooms, and I caught Bobby Lamhorn giggling at it; and Sibyl made fun of it, too, with Bobby; and then told papa she agreed with him about its being such a fine thing, and said he did just right to insist on having it where he wanted it. She makes me tired! Sibyl!"

Edith's first constraint with her brother, amounting almost to awkwardness, vanished with this theme, though she still kept her full gaze always to the front, even in the extreme ardor of her denunciation of her sister-in-law.

"Sibyl!" she repeated, with such heat and vigor that the name seemed to strike fire on her lips. "I'd like to know why Roscoe couldn't have married somebody from here that would have done us some good. Instead of this Sibyl Rink! I met some awfully nice people from her town when mamma and I were at Atlantic City, last spring, and not one had ever even heard of the Rinks! Not even heard of 'em!"

"I thought you were great friends with Sibyl," Bibbs said.

"Up to the time I found her out!" the sister returned, with continuing vehemence. "I've found out some things about Mrs. Roscoe Sheridan lately—"

"It's only lately?"

"Well—" Edith hesitated, her lips setting primly. "Of course, I always did see that she never cared the snap of her little finger about Roscoe."

"It seems," said Bibbs, in laconic protest, "that she married him."

The sister emitted a shrill cry, to be interpreted as contemptuous laughter, and, in her emotion, spoke too impulsively: "Why, she'd have married you!"

"No, no," he said; "she couldn't be that bad!"

"I didn't mean—" she began, distressed. "I only meant—I didn't mean—"

"Never mind, Edith," he consoled her. "You see, she couldn't have married me, because I didn't know her; and besides, if she's as mercenary as all that, she'd have been too clever. The head doctor even had to lend me the money for my ticket home."

"I didn't mean anything unpleasant about you," Edith babbled. "I only meant I thought she was the kind of a girl who was so simply crazy to marry somebody she'd have married anybody that asked her."

"Yes, yes," said Bibbs; "it's all straight!" And, perceiving that his sister's expression was that of a person whose adroitness has set matters perfectly to rights, he chuckled silently.

"Roscoe's perfectly lovely to her," she continued, a moment later. "Too lovely! If he'd wake up a little and lay down the law, some day, like a man, I guess she'd respect him more and learn to behave herself!"

"Behave?"

"Oh, well, I mean she's so insincere," said Edith, characteristically evasive when it came to stating the very point to which she had led, and in this not unique of her sex.

Bibbs contented himself with a non-committal gesture. "Business is crawling up the old streets," he said, his long, tremulous hand indicating a vast structure in course of erection. "The boarding houses come first, and then the—"

"That isn't for shops," she informed him. "That's a new investment of papa's—the 'Sheridan apartments.'"

"Well, well," he murmured. "I supposed 'Sheridan' was almost well enough known here already."

"Oh, we're well enough known about!" she said, impatiently. "I guess there isn't a man, woman, child or nigger baby in town that doesn't know who we are. But we aren't in with the right people."

"No!" he exclaimed. "Who's all that?"

"You know what I mean: the best people, the old families—the people that have the real social position in this town and that know they've got it."

Bibbs engaged in his silent chuckle again; he seemed highly amused. "I thought that the people who actually had the real what-do-you-call-it didn't know it," he said. "I've always understood that it was very unsatisfactory, because if you thought about it you didn't have it, and if you had it you didn't know it."

"That's just bosh," she retorted. "They know it in this town, all right! I found out a lot of things, long before we began to think of building out in this direction. The right people in this town aren't always the society-column ones, and they mix around with outsiders, but they're a clan, just the same; and they have the clan feeling. Most of 'em were here long before papa came, and the grandfathers of the girls of my age knew each other, and—"

"I see," Bibbs interrupted, gravely. "Their ancestors fled together from many a stricken field, and crusaders' blood flows in their veins. I always understood the first house was built by an old party of the name of Vertrees, who couldn't get along with Dan! Boone, and hurried away to these parts because Dan! wanted him to give back a gun he'd lent him."

Edith gave a little ejaculation of alarm. "You mustn't repeat that story, Bibbs, even if it's true. The Vertreeses are the best family, and of course the very oldest here; they were an old family even before Mary Vertrees' great-great-grandfather came west and founded this settlement. He came from Lynn, Massachusetts, and they have relatives there yet—some of the best people in Lynn!"

"No!" exclaimed Bibbs, incredulously. "And there are other old families like the Vertreeses," she went on, not heeding him: "the Lamhorns and the Kittersbys and the J. Palmerston Smiths."

"Strange names to me," he interrupted. "Poor things! None of them have my acquaintance!"

BASEBALL LEAGUE TO BE CONDUCTED FOR SCHOOL BOYS

First Annual Grade School Baseball League to Start Wednesday—Eight Teams Entered.

All the grade school baseball teams will be in action on Wednesday afternoon at four-thirty o'clock, as this is the time set for the beginning of the first annual graded school baseball league under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. Eight schools have entered the league and already there has been some live interest. Each school held meetings, at which they elected captains and other officers. At the first call for candidates many players came out and the picking of a first team was a difficult job for the captain.

The committee in charge of the league has drawn up a set of rules which must be followed out in all the games. One of the first requirements is that all players must be registered students in the schools which he represents on the diamond. The captain or a substitute must hand in a list of the players for each game to H. J. Center at the "Y," at least one hour before the time of playing. All games to be played on Saturdays will be called at 10:00 a. m. and those played on school days at 4:30 o'clock. Teams not ready to play at least fifteen minutes after the time scheduled must forfeit. All decisions rendered by the umpires shall be final. If questions should arise during the progress of the game they will be decided by the committee in company with the umpire and one representative of the team in dispute.

All games will be played under the official rules and everything will be strictly adhered to. League balls will be furnished for each game and must be returned to the place where they were taken. The team playing on their home lot will have their outs for all scheduled games. Following are the schools entered and the places where they will play:

Fourth ward park; Jefferson, Riverview park; Washington, Tallman's lot; Douglas, Viaduct lot; St. Patrick's, Fourth ward park; St. Mary's, Court House park; Lincoln, Douglas lot; Lincoln, Fourth ward park.

The schedule is arranged at the present time will make the close of the league on June 14th. Following is the complete schedule which will be followed out without a change.

TWO CHICAGO TEAMS DEFEATED ON SUNDAY

Home Run Drive Loses Pitching Duel for Cubs While Sox Drop Fourth Game to Cleveland.

Max Carey's drive over the high field fence scored the only run of a pitcher's battle Kantlehner of Pittsburgh won from Lander of Chicago Sunday. The Cubs got only three hits off the Pittsburgh pitcher and only one of them got third. Eugene Fielding by both teams was a feature, Mann starting with a one-handed catch and Zimmerman and Verkes contributing other good plays. Of the eight hits by both teams only two were singles, drives into the crowd which fringed the field accounting for some of the two-base hits.

CONVICTS TO PLAY BALL AND HOLD BAND CONCERT FOR HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN.

Columbus, O., May 8.—Under heavy guard the Ohio penitentiary convict band and the pen baseball team were given a public exhibition at Neil park for the benefit of the Columbus Children's hospital campaign here this afternoon.

The prison team will cross bats with the local Standard Oil team to play off the "rubber" of two games played for the benefit of the Columbus Children's hospital campaign here this afternoon. The Springfield "stickup" who starred last season on the mound for the pen team will do the twirling, and "Alex," colored Dayton "porch climber" who pulled "Larry Gardner" thrillers at third base last year will again occupy that position.

Activities are increasing at Indianapolis Speedway.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Indianapolis, May 8.—Activities at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway where the sixth annual automobile race will be staged Memorial Day, May 30, are increasing daily. A number of new entrants sent their cars to the track course during the week and have begun tuning them up for the 300-mile grind, that will be started at noon.

Barney Oldfield, one of the veterans of the racing game, has showed up with his car for what he says will be his last speed contest. He will drive a foreign built machine and declares he will not be classed among the "also started" in his final race.

WISCONSIN SWAMPS PURDUE IN EVENTS

Archie Mucks Wins Nearly Enough Points to Beat Bollermakers.

Madison, Wis., May 8.—Archie Mucks won twenty of Wisconsin's eighty-eight points on Saturday, when the Badger track team defeated Purdue. The Bollermakers acquired but forty-seven points, most of which were made through second and third places.

Purdue took but three firsts, in the two mile, high hurdles and high jump. They were completely shut out in the 220 yard dash, the low hurdles and the broad jump.

Mucks, who won first place in the four weight events, broke the conference records in both the discus and javelin throws. He was also the Badgers' had in the weights, as Purdue took all the seconds and thirds.

The prettiest race of the dual meet was the two mile, in which Atkins of the Bollermakers pulled up from behind for a good lead on Pelton and Merrill.

The big surprise of the day was Archie Mucks' javelin toss. The javelin is a new weapon for the Oakeshott giant, but after practicing with it a few times he sent it sailing half way across Camp Randall. His throw was nine feet better than the records. This was his fourth and last first of the meet.

Beloit Holds Tourney. Beloit, Wis., May 8.—Illinois schools copied first honors in the Beloit inter-scholastic meet held here on Saturday. Joliet led the athletes in Class A with forty points, and Oregon, Ill., in Class B with fifty-five points.

Only one Milwaukee school made a season's showing, Riverside copping twenty-one points in Class A for third place.

Kuehn of Riverside led Milwaukee athletes in scoring, with bursts in the broad jump, pole vault and third in the broad jump. He threw the hammer 140 feet. His vaulting mark of 10 feet 7 inches was closely contested by A. Schmidt of Milwaukee North. Miller of Riverside won the high jump, height 5 feet seven inches. Second and third in the half mile relay were hotly contested by Washington and Riverside.

FORMER BASEBALL PLAYER STARTS SUIT AGAINST AUNT.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Pontiac, Mich., May 8.—Fred Blanding, former Cleveland American league pitcher and once University of Michigan star—who quit the game to become a farmer—has filed suit against his aunt, a wealthy Birmingham, Michigan woman. He alleges that he quit the game to manage a large farm she owns, upon the understanding that he would receive eighty acres of the farm, which is said to comprise two hundred and fifty acres. Blanding, in his complaint, declares he built a home on the property he Graney, Speaker and Smith are doing the bulk of the hitting for the Cleveland team. Graney is in particularly good form this spring, and he is getting a lot of extra base hits. Smith always looked as if he would make a good hitter and it seems as if he had come into his own this spring. Speaker is doing a lot better stick work than he did last spring for Boston. It was late in the season then before he got into his stride, but he has been hitting terrifically all spring with Cleveland.

Syracuse university will soon have the largest athletic arena in this country. When finished the stadium will cover six and one-half acres. It will have a normal seating capacity of 20,000, which can be increased to 40,000. The stadium will cover more ground than the famous Yale "bow" at New Haven.

President Morris of the Texas league has issued instructions to his umpires against allowing pitchers to use the quick return ball. It seems that pitcher Johnson of Fort Worth slipped over a third strike on Catcher Mackey of Dallas when the Dallas batsman wasn't looking and a howl went up.

A story is again circulating around the Texas league that Joe Gardner may sell out at Dallas. There seems to be a fixed opinion that Dallas will not take its real place in the game until there is a change in ownership. Dallas, say the Texas league magnates, should be the best city in the league. As things now are it is about the poorest.

Joe Gardner, who has been desperately hard up for scotch for his Dallas team, has purchased Texier from Topoka Western league club. McDonough and Mackey, the Dallas backstops have shown miserably this spring. Gardner thinks that with a good man behind the bat to hold his young pitchers their work will improve. The team is beginning to show hitting and fielding ability.

In the American Association they have a rule that distinguishes the Chivington organization from all others. Base runners over-running first have to turn to the right, else they are liable to be put out. A home run will count for four bases in the Association, however, just as in other leagues.

While Bert Humphries was pitching a one-hit game for Kansas City against Toledo, Roger Bresnahan stood on the coaching line and tried to disconcert the Kaw twirler by his banter. Humphries says it has far less harmful effect on him than some of Roger's coaching when the two were working as battery mates with the Chicago Cubs.

Manager Roger Bresnahan of Toledo has one of the former Cub twirlers to take the place of one of the fading ex-Feds he started the season with. He has purchased Pitcher Karl Adams from the Phillies. The Philadelphia club took Adams from the Cubs on a chance, but the necessity of reducing the team caused Manager Moran to cut him loose.

Dode Faskert's good hitting is, according to a Philadelphia writer, due to Manager Moran changing his style of batting. Faskert always swung hard and pulled the ball to left field. Moran has tipped him off to the better way and pitchers who have been feeding the outfielder balls on the outside with great success in the past now find him slicing them into right for safeties.

Infielder Bill Martin, the former Georgetown player, cut adrift by the New York Giants, catches on with Rochester, while Eddie Harrien, also discarded by McGraw, will go to New London in the Eastern league. Fred Brainard reconsiders his determination to quit the game and reports to Providence, where, he says, he will play such ball as to show McGraw up for releasing him.

One Chicago critic is of the belief that Max Flack, Cub outfielder, late of the Chicago, will outshine Kauff, Flack it appears, combines the desired slugging faculty with the Willie Keeler type of hitting. He may rattle the boards in one bat effort, then, with the opposition set for another slam, he is likely to drop a tap along the base line and race ahead of the ball to first base. His booster says he can run exceptionally fast, field a la Carey, bat 300 and throw with the best.

FOURTH WARD BADGERS WIN FROM ROCK HILL TEAM

The Fourth Ward Badgers defeated the Rock Hill team Sunday afternoon at the Rock Hill diamond by the score of 17 to 1. The Badgers also defeated the Second ward team by the score of 11 to 5 Saturday afternoon at the Riverview Park. The Badgers issue a challenge to any team in the county between fourteen and sixteen years of age. The lineup for the Badgers is as follows:

H. Ryan, c; George Cassidy, p; H. Dawson, ss; Denning, 1b; F. Castle, 2b; Dawson, cf; Stearns, rf; Clark, if.

BELOIT FAIRIES WIN TWO GAME FROM HENRY GRAYS

Two games were won by the Beloit Fairbanks-Morse team Saturday and Sunday, the last Henry Grays being the victims of the double drubbings. A number of baseball fans from this city witnessed the game yesterday.

Saturday the Fairies won, three to one, with Wootton doing the pitching. Not until the ninth did the Grays score a run. Sunday Sam Laferty, Beloit's pride, pitched the Fairies to a victory in an exciting ten inning duel by the score of five to four. Thomas stole home in the tenth with the winning run, and Luvie, catching for the Grays, had his wrist broken in the play.

AFTON

Afton, May 6.—At the regular meeting of Solid Rock Camp, R. N. A. Thursday afternoon, one application for membership was voted upon and other routine business was transacted. Following the business meeting the tables were spread and the entire camp sat down to a sumptuous repast provided by the losing side in the recent attendance contest. Twenty-five members were present and a social hour was spent following the refreshments. Those from Beloit who attended the meeting were Messadams Harry Eddy, James Cottier, Henry Huebbs and David Thorne.

Mrs. Edward James is spending a few days with her niece, Mrs. George Robb. Mrs. James, whose health has been very poor for a long time, is very much improved and expects to move to Beloit next week, where Mrs. James is now employed and begin housekeeping again.

Mrs. Henry Huebbs of Beloit, visited at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Uehlin, Thursday. Miss Evelyn Mueller returned to Wilmotte, Ill., after spending the week end at her home here.

Thomas Corcoran, night operator, has been transferred to the Beloit depot and expects to move there next week.

LA PRAIRIE

La Prairie, May 2.—A Tom Thumb wedding will be given at the Shoppers M. E. church Tuesday evening, by children from three to ten years of age. About twenty boys and fifty girls take part and the entertainment promises to be very amusing.

E. F. Funk and Wm. Conway were in Chicago Wednesday. Mrs. Ora Howard of Janesville is spending the week end with relatives. Mrs. B. Waite and Mrs. Frank Howard entertained a missionary meeting at Mrs. Fred Waite's of Clinton.

Aren't you about ready to stop "cigarette-shopping"?

You've tried out more different brands of cigarettes than you can remember. It's discouraging. And expensive.

Naturally, you'd stop this "shopping" around—quick—if you could find a cigarette that never grew tiresome.

Fatima is such a cigarette.

Men don't simply get Fatimas—they adopt them.

Because they find that Fatimas never grow tiresome.

Fatimas are a SENSIBLE cigarette inasmuch as they are always cool and comfortable to the throat and tongue. And they allow you to smoke as you like to smoke—without leaving a trace of "mean" feeling afterward.

Is it any wonder men adopt Fatimas and STICK to Fatimas for their steady smoke?

Surely—you should at least TRY Fatimas.

CANDIDATES WILL PLEDGE ECONOMY

CONSERVATIVE REPUBLICAN ASPIRANTS FOR LEGISLATURE DISCUSSED.

BOTH FACTIONS ACTIVE

Contest Certain Between Philipp and La Follette for Control of Legislature.

Men pledged to a program of economy in state government will be candidates in seventeen senatorial districts and in every assembly district for the Wisconsin legislature of 1917. The interest shown in 1914, in the movement to reduce taxes, is overshadowed by the interest already manifested in the election of senators and assemblymen who are in harmony with Gov. Philipp's views.

Conferences have been held here and in other sections of the state during the week just closed, at which legislative candidates were discussed. Several conservative republicans have made formal announcement that they will be in the field, and many others have made it known that they will soon enter the race. It is the plan to make a thorough campaign in less experimentation and greater degree of economy in state affairs.

Both Factions Active.

The feeling is general among conservative republicans that much progress was made in the last legislature, but party leaders are determined that the Philipp program shall be carried out in detail. The La Follette forces also are active, having chosen many of their candidates.

A primary fight will be made on Senator W. J. Biehn, democrat, who is running in the twentieth district. In the thirty-second district, represented in the last legislature by Senator Otto Bosshard, candidate for governor Assemblyman, Carl Kurtenacker, La Crosse, is being urged to run for the republican nomination. In the second senatorial district Timothy Burke, Green Bay, will again be a republican candidate. Burke is one of the leaders of the upper house, and because of his many years of service, is familiar with state affairs.

Culbertson to Retire.

Senator Henry M. Culbertson, progressive republican, has announced that he will not seek re-election in the fourteenth district, and the conservatives will put up a stiff fight to elect his successor.

Senator L. E. Cunningham, Beloit, is expected to be the conservative republican candidate in the twenty-second district. Mayor Adams, Beloit, may be the La Follette choice against him. In the sixteenth district, represented in the last legislature by the late Senator Robert Glenn, Henry E. Roethe, Fennimore, conservative republican, is a candidate. The conservatives will make a fight on Senator Henry A. Huber, Stoughton, in the twenty-sixth district. Huber is an inconspicuous figure in senate debate, but the La Follette forces are pleased with him because he never fails to vote outside the senator's faction.

Pickart for Assemblyman.

Senator Louis G. Kellogg, Ripon, is not likely to have any democratic opposition in the eighteenth district. There was talk that Chris Pickart would be a senatorial candidate there, but it is understood he prefers to run for re-election to the assembly.

Axel Johnson, Polk county, is said to be a candidate to succeed the late Senator George E. Scott in the twenty-ninth district. W. W. Vorland, Cumberland, will oppose him. In the twenty-fourth district Assemblyman Emory W. Crosby, Neillsville, will be the republican candidate against Senator Robert W. Caldwell, Illinoisville. Monk is another La Follette man who plays a small role in the affairs of the senate, but is satisfactory to the progressives because he fills a role similar to that of Senator Huber.

Stevens is Unopposed.

Senator W. D. Stevens, Rhinelander, republican, will be a candidate in the Thirtieth district, and probably will not be opposed. A. A. Jones, Tompkins, Ashland, who voted with the progressive republicans, is not expected to be a candidate. A. W. Wilkinson, Bay View, and H. H. Peavey, Washburn, are republican aspirants for his place.

Among the assemblymen and others who are considered in the field for election to the lower house are the following:

Assemblyman William Arnemann, Neenah, Second Winnebago district; Assemblyman Jacob Aulenbacher, Richfield, democrat of Washington county district; Assemblyman J. I. Beckwith, Barron, republican, Barron county district; Assemblyman Charles Budlong, Racine, republican; Assemblyman Robert Caldwell, Loti, republican, Columbia county district; Assemblyman T. G. Cretney, Ridgeview, republican, Iowa county district; Assemblyman Robert B. Dickie, North Freedom, republican, Sauk county district; Assemblyman John Dixon, republican, First Racine district; Assemblyman D. L. Dobie and Assemblyman Ray Douglas, Douglas county district, with the conservatives making a fight on Dobie; Assemblyman W. I. Edwards, republican, Second Waushara district; Assemblyman C. K. Ellingson, Hawkins, republican, Rusk-Sawyer county district.

Roesler May be in Race.

Former Assemblyman Oscar Roesler will probably be a democratic candidate for the assembly in the Second Jefferson county district against Assemblyman M. H. Falk. Assemblyman John Gamper, Medford, democrat, Taylor county district; Assemblyman H. J. Grell, Johnson Creek, republican; Assemblyman Carl Hansen, Manitowoc, democrat, First Manitowoc district; Assemblyman George L. Harrington, Elkhorn, republican, Walworth county district; Assemblyman Fred Hess, Waupaca, republican, Waupaca county district; Assemblyman H. M. Laursen, Shell Lake, republican, Burnett-Washburn county district; Joseph C. Chapple, Ashland, republican, may be a candidate for the assembly in the Ashland district. Assemblyman William Nelson, Deerfield, republican, Second Dane county district; Assemblyman Charles P. Ploeger, Seymour, republican, Second Outagamie district; Assemblyman B. L. Van Gordon, Taylor, republican, Jackson county district; Assemblyman W. Woodard, Bloomer, republican, Chippewa county district.

SENATOR MARTIN ILL AT CHICAGO HOSPITAL

Prominent La Follette Leader in Serious Condition Following Operation on His Throat.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., May 8.—Word has been received here from Chicago of the serious illness of Senator Harry Chapman Martin, one of the best known men in recent sessions of the Wisconsin legislature. Senator Martin is at Presbyterian Hospital, where he went some time ago to take treatments, following an operation on his throat last fall.

Since 1887 Senator Martin has been prominent in Wisconsin politics. He has been county superintendent of schools of La Fayette county; mayor of Darlington; district attorney of La Fayette county, and was elected to the Wisconsin assembly in 1895 to fill a vacancy occasioned by the death of James Freeman. For sixteen years he was a member of the state senate. He was first elected to the senate in 1898 and held the office continuously by re-elections until defeated in the primaries in the fall of 1914.

MADISON BANKS TO CLOSE ON SATURDAY AFTERNOONS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., May 8.—Commencing Monday, all the banks in the city close on Saturday afternoons.

This is the first time that such an innovation has been started by the banks of the city and is the result of the campaign waged by the bank clerks' organization recently formed here.

Change Works Well.

Everybody should go away from home once in a while and stay long enough to get homesick.

If you have a rug, a couch or any other article of household furniture to get rid of, use a Gazette want ad. It will surely sell it.

As New York Understands It.

In one of New York's public schools the other day this sentence appeared in the reading lesson: "The king and his escort passed by." "Now," said the teacher, "who can tell me what is meant by an 'escort'?" A small, freckled-faced boy raised his hand, and in the vernacular of the East Side said: "It's a feller what's got a girl and he takes her out walking."

FIRST AUTHENTIC PICTURES OF RUSSIAN TROOPS IN FRANCE

First pictures of Russian troops in France.

These pictures, which have just been received from France, prove true the reports that the detachment of Russian troops which arrived recently at Marseilles was not the first contingent of soldiers sent by the czar to the western front. It is known now that an advance allotment of two brigades, about ten thousand soldiers, arrived at Toulon from Dalmia early in April. Every effort was made for a number of days to keep from the outside world any knowledge of their arrival. It was spread abroad that the ten thousand, who came in civilian dress and without equipment, were Serbian refugees who came from Durazzo and Scutari, Albania. For at least two weeks, however, these troops have been drilling in Russian uniform, and these pictures were the first of them to be taken.
